Author's Rights Retention Kit

http://libguides.utk.edu/retainyourrights

Publishing with a toll access publisher?

Scenario 1: You are choosing where to publish a manuscript and are considering a toll access publisher. TIP: You can easily find and compare policies at http://www.sherpa.ac.uk/romeo/.

Scenario 2: A toll access publisher accepts your manuscript. You've been asked to sign the publisher's standard copyright transfer agreement. TIP: The publisher requires only the author's permission (also called a non-exclusive license) to publish, not the wholesale transfer of rights.

It is possible to negotiate copyright transfer with publishers. Many publishers expect such negotiations and have another copyright transfer agreement in reserve for authors who ask for more rights than the standard agreement permits.

Attached are two examples of standard copyright transfer agreements or statements that restrict the author's right to post the final published version on UT author services like SelectedWorks and TRACE.

SelectedWorks is the UT Libraries service that provides a branded, easily customizable way to manage your online reputation. It is optimized for Google and will allow people to your work more easily, but the toll access publishing model restricts access to the full text unless you take action to retain more of your rights.

TRACE is the UT digital archive that preserves your work. This is a valuable complement to preservation activities of for-profit publishing companies, which are subject to mergers and acquisitions.

Increased Access = Increased Impact

Ann Viera or Peter Fernandez 865-974-7338
Pendergrass Library, University of Tennessee, Knoxville 10/2013

CC BY

COPYRIGHT TRANSFER AGREEMENT

WILEY-BLACKWELL

Date: _____ Contributor name: _____

Contributor address: _____

Manuscript number (if known): _____

Re: Manuscript entitled _____ _____

_____ 'ribution")

for publication in _____ ɔurnal")

published by _____ .Viley-Blackwell").

Dear Contributor(s):
Thank you for submitting your Contribution f- ..ıy process and enable Wiley-Blackwell to disseminate your Contribution to th- ..greement signed and returned as directed in the Journal's instructions for authors a- ..ublication, or if the Contribution is subsequently rejected, this Agreement shall b- ..signed copy of this Agreement.

Example #1: a standard copyright transfer agreement that restricts the author's right to post the final published version on UTK author services like SelectedWorks and TRACE.

..ckwell, during the full term of copy- ..wals, all copyright in and to the Contribution, ..luding but not limited to the right to publish, repub- .., distribute and otherwise use the Contribution in whole or in ..ectronic and print editions of the Journal and in derivative works ..oughout the world, in all languages and in all media of expression now known or later developed, and to license or permit others to do so.

2. Reproduction, posting, transmission or other distribution or use of the final Contribution in whole or in part in any medium by the Contributor as permitted by this Agreement requires a citation to the Journal and an appropriate credit to Wiley-Blackwell as Publisher, and/or the Society if applicable, suitable in form and content as follows: (Title of Article, Author, Journal Title and Volume/Issue, Copyright © [year], copyright owner as specified in the Journal). Links to the final article on Wiley-Blackwell's website are encouraged where appropriate.

B. RETAINED RIGHTS

Notwithstanding the above, the Contributor or, if applicable, the Contributor's Employer, retains all proprietary rights other than copyright, such as patent rights, in any process, procedure or article of manufacture described in the Contribution.

C. PERMITTED USES BY CONTRIBUTOR

1. Submitted Version. Wiley-Blackwell licenses back the following rights to the Contributor in the version of the Contribution as originally submitted for publication:

a. After publication of the final article, the right to self-archive on the Contributor's personal website or in the Contributor's institution's/employer's institutional repository or archive. This right extends to both intranets and the Internet. The Contributor may not update the submission version or replace it with the published Contribution. The version posted must contain a legend as follows: This is the pre-peer reviewed version of the following article: FULL CITE, which has been published in final form at [Link to final article].

b. The right to transmit, print and share copies with colleagues.

2. Accepted Version. Re-use of the accepted and peer-reviewed (but not final) version of the Contribution shall be by separate agreement with Wiley-Blackwell. Wiley-Blackwell has agreements with certain funding agencies governing reuse of this version. The details of those relationships, and other offerings allowing open web use, are set forth at the following website: http://www.wiley.com/go/funderstatement. NIH grantees should check the box at the bottom of this document.

3. Final Published Version. Wiley-Blackwell hereby licenses back to the Contributor the following rights with respect to the final published version of the Contribution:

a. Copies for colleagues. The personal right of the Contributor only to send or transmit individual copies of the final published version in any format to colleagues upon their specific request provided no fee is charged, and further-provided that there is no systematic distribution of the Contribution, e.g. posting on a listserve, website or automated delivery.

b. Re-use in other publications. The right to re-use the final Contribution or parts thereof for any publication authored or edited by the Contributor (excluding journal articles) where such re-used material constitutes less than half of the total material in such publication. In such case, any modifications should be accurately noted.

c. Teaching duties. The right to include the Contribution in teaching or training duties at the Contributor's institution/place of employment including in course packs, e-reserves, presentation at professional conferences, in-house training, or distance learning. The Contribution may not be used in seminars outside of normal teaching obligations (e.g. commercial seminars). Electronic posting of the final published version in connection with teaching/training at the Contributor's institution/place of employment is permitted subject to the implementation of reasonable access control mechanisms, such as user name and password. Posting the final published version on the open Internet is not permitted.

d. Oral presentations. The ri-..to make oral presentations based on the Contribution.

4. Article Abstracts, Figures, Tables, Data Sets, Artwork and Selected Text (up to 250 words).

a. Contributors may re-use unmodified abstracts for any non-commercial purpose. For on-line uses of the abstracts, Wiley-Blackwell encourages but does not require linking back to the final published versions.

b. Contributors may re-use figures, tables, data sets, artwork, and selected text up to 250 words from their Contributions, provided the following conditions are met:

(i) Full and accurate credit must be given to the Contribution.
(ii) Modifications to the figures, tables and data must be noted. Otherwise, no changes may be made.
(iii) The reuse may not be made for direct commercial purposes, or for financial consideration to the Contributor.
(iv) Nothing herein shall permit dual publication in violation of journal ethical practices.

For Authors

Journal authors' home
Author Rights
Ethics
Funding body agreements
Open access
Author services
Journal performance
Early career researchers
Authors' update
Book authors' home
Getting your paper noticed

Author Rights

Elsevier supports the need for authors to share, disseminate and maximize the impact of their research. We take our responsibility as stewards of the online record seriously, and work to ensure our policies and procedures help to protect the integrity of scholarly works.

Author's rights to reuse and post their own articles published by Elsevier are defined by Elsevier's copyright policy. For our proprietary titles, the type of copyright agreement used depends on the author's choice of publication:

For subscription articles: These rights are determined by a copyright transfer, where authors retain scholarly rights to post and use their articles.

For open access articles: These rights are determined by an exclusive license agreement, which applies to all our open access content.

In both cases, the fundamental rights needed to publish and distribute an article remain the same and Elsevier authors will be able to use their articles for a wide range of scholarly purposes.

Details on how authors can reuse and post their own articles are provided below.

Help and support
For reuse and posting not detailed below, please see our posting policy, or for authors who would like to:

- Include material from other sources in your work being published by Elsevier, please visit
- Obtain permission to re-use material from Elsevier books, journals, databases
  Elsevier material
- Or if you are an Elsevier author and are contacted by them to our Obtaining Permission to Re
- See our FAQ on posting
- Contact the

Example #2: a standard copyright transfer agreement web page showing publisher restrictions on the author's right to post the final published version on UTK author services like SelectedWorks and TRACE.

Author Posting | Definitions

How authors can post their articles online

Elsevier authors can share and post their articles online in a variety of ways. For specific details please see our posting policy.

If your institution has an open access policy or mandate that requires you to post, Elsevier requires an agreement to be in place which respects the journal-specific embargo periods. Please see our institutional and funding body agreements for further details.

Posting	Subscription article			Open access article
	Pre-print Version	Accepted Author Manuscript	Published Journal Article	Pre-print Version	Accepted Author Manuscript	Published Journal Article
Posting to a pre-print server.*	✓	✗ (except when posting to arXiv)	✗	✓	✓	✓
Voluntary posting on open web sites operated by author or author's institution for scholarly purposes.	✓	✓	✗	✓	✓	✓
Mandated deposit or deposit in or posting to subject-oriented or centralized repositories.	✓	✗	✗	✓	✓	✓
Use or posting for commercial gain or to substitute for services provided directly by journal.	✗	✗	✗	Only under CC BY	Only under CC BY	Only under CC BY
Posting raw research data to a repository.	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓

*Note: Cell Press and some third party owned Elsevier published journals have different pre-print policies. These journals will not consider for publication articles that have already been posted publicly. Check the guide for authors for further details.
Note: Raw data is different from the figures, tables, etc. published within the article that may represent the same research data but for which are copyrighted.